Why British Vessels Are Compelled to

Pay Dues at American Ports. WASHINGTON, April 26 .- Inquiry into the protest, cabled from London, of Sir Christopher Furness, head of the Furness Hne of steamers, that tonnage dues are charged in the case of British vessels entering American ports, while Dutch and Spanish vessels enter free, discloses tho fact that tonnage dues are imposed on British shipping entering American ports because the British levy a corresponding auty on American shipping under the guise of lighthouse dues. The act of June 19, 2886, authorizes the President to suspend the collection of tonnage dues on vessels from countries which do not impose fees or dues of any kind on United States shipping. If the British government will remit the lighthouse dues it may secure the same advantages in the remission of tonnage dues on British shipping in American ports as are enjoyed by a number of other countries, including even some of the British dependencies, such as the West Indian Islands. German shipping is in like position with that of British shipping, because the German government imposes, not lighthouse dues, but another class of treasury

The Best Horses Reserved for Last Day of the Sale.

The special sale of horses at the Union stockyards, which has been in progress this week, was concluded yesterday. As many of the best horses were not placed on sale until the last day the bidding yesterday was very lively at times, and about three hundred were sold during the day. The prices ranged from $200 to $450.

Individuals Can't Get the Acts.

"I wish you would say to the public, for me, that it will be impossible for the secretary of state to supply individuals with copies of the acts of the last Legislature,' said Secretary of State Hunt, last night, "until the clerks of all the countles have been supplied with the number allowed them by the law. I am constantly being visited by people who want the books and I would be greatly pleased if I could accommodate them. But if I were to commence distributing the volumes now the supply would be exhausted before the clerks receive their share. So the public will have to get the books from the county clerk in the courthouse. That official will have his
